Our Curriculum & Our Results & Our Legacy

We offer two courses:

A Level Psychology:

This is a large and thriving subject at High Storrs. We follow the AQA specification and have over 70 students in our current year 12 and around the same in year 13. We have a proven track record in achieving great results for our students and many go on to study the subject at degree level. All of our teachers are subject specialists and our retention and satisfaction rates amongst our students are very high. We are proud that one of our students was awarded First Place in the National Psychological and Behavioural Sciences Essay Prize held by Newnham College, Cambridge and is currently studying there.

GCSE Psychology:

We follow the OCR specification. This course is a popular choice amongst our students and provides an excellent grounding in the nature and content of psychology. Many of the concepts covered have clear applications to real life and the skills developed during the course (particularly those relating to research and data analysis) are transferable to other subjects and to the wider world. Due to the challenging nature of some of the material covered, this can usually only be taken as a one-year course in year 11. This means that the course is very intensive. Despite this, most of our students enjoy it and achieve high levels of success and many go on to progress on to the A level course and beyond.
